PREAMBLE

WHEREAS the purpose of the National Credit Act, 2005 (Act No. 34 of 2005), is to promote and advance the social and economic welfare of South Africans; to promote a fair, transparent, competitive, sustainable, responsible, efficient, effective and accessible credit market industry; and to protect consumers;

AND WHEREAS without suitable alternative debt interventions being made available to over-indebted individuals in these categories, it is an unbeatable challenge for them to manage or improve their financial position and become productive members of society;

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE NATIONAL CREDIT AMENDMENT BILL, 2018

1. INTRODUCTION

At the end of March 2017, 24.68 million consumers were credit-active in South Africa. Of these credit-active consumers, 14.99 million consumers were in good standing while 9.69 million had impaired records (an impaired record refers to a consumer account that are classified as three or more payments or months in arrears, or which has an “adverse listing”, or that reflects a judgment or an administration order). Consumers with impaired records account for approximately 39.3 per cent of the credit-active consumers and may be considered over-indebted.

A study commissioned by the National Credit Regulator on the “Feasibility of a Debt Forgiveness Programme in South Africa” confirmed that there is a need for the National Credit Act to make provision for the introduction of alternative debt intervention measures to alleviate household over-indebtedness.

Existing mechanisms for debt intervention exclude a group of vulnerable consumers. The Insolvency Act, 1936 (Act No. 24 of 1936), does not assist a debtor where there is no benefit to creditors. The National Credit Act, 2005 (Act No. 34 of 2005) (“the Act”), provides for a debt review measure to alleviate household debt. Similarly, the Magistrates’ Courts Act, 1944 (Act No. 32 of 1944), provides for debt administration where an administrator assists to handle the debtor’s finances and pay off his/her debt. However, due to the costs involved in these procedures, this vulnerable group is still excluded. Debt review is simply not cost-effective for Debt Counsellors when considering applications of consumers earning less than R7500 per month, while debt administration will cost the debtor up to 12.5% of the value of their debt repayments in administration costs.

Without suitable, alternative debt intervention measures available to over-indebted individuals in especially in lower income groups who are unable to afford these other measures, escaping the debt trap is an unbeatable challenge for them to improve their financial position and become productive members of society.

Currently, the Act does not adequately provide for prosecution of unscrupulous lenders. Thus, prohibited conduct has been occurring with little to no consequences. Over-indebtedness could be curbed if there was stricter enforcement of the provisions in the Act on prohibited conduct and available credit life insurance facilities were used effectively where there are unforeseen changes in personal financial circumstances.

2. OBJECTS OF THE BILL

The Bill aims to provide for capped debt intervention to promote a change in the borrowing and spending habits of an over-indebted society. The Bill will provide relief to over-indebted South Africans who have no other effective or efficient options to extract themselves from over-indebtedness. The Bill provides for mandatory credit life insurance on all credit agreements for longer than six months but no more than R50 000 in value to prevent lower income groups from falling into over-indebtedness due to changes in their financial circumstances. The Bill also aims to further limit the wide-spread abuse of consumers by unscrupulous lenders and to allow for simpler and more rigorous enforcement of the Act by, amongst others, providing for criminal prosecution of persons who contravene the Act.

3. CONTENTS OF THE BILL

- 3.1 Clause 1 amends section 3 of the Act to provide for debt intervention as one of the tools to promote and advance the social and economic welfare of South Africans.
- 3.2 Clause 2 amends section 5 of the Act to make the debt intervention provided for in the Bill applicable to incidental credit agreements.
- 3.3 Clause 3 amends section 6 of the Act to exclude the debt intervention provided for in the Bill from applying to juristic persons.
- 3.4 Clause 4 amends section 15 of the Act to add to the functions of the National Credit Regulator in respect of applications for debt intervention and suspending credit agreements considered to be reckless.
- 3.5 Clause 5 amends section 27 of the Act to add to the functions of the Tribunal in respect of referrals to it in terms of this Act.
- 3.6 Clause 6 amends section 43 of the Act to add the receipt of reports on debt interventions to the business of credit bureaux.
- 3.7 Clause 7 amends section 60 of the Act to correctly reflect the right to apply for credit as being subject to the Act.
- 3.8 Clause 8 amends section 69 of the Act to require the National Credit Regulator to keep a register of applications for debt intervention and to provide that the Minister may prescribe the information to be recorded therein.
- 3.9 Clause 9 amends section 70 of the Act requiring credit bureaux to accept information related to successful debt intervention applications from the National Credit Regulator at no charge.
- 3.10 Clause 10 amends section 71A of the Act to provide for the period within which credit bureaux must remove a listing related to successful debt intervention applications.
- 3.11 Clause 11 inserts section 82A into the Act, which section requires credit providers and debt counsellors to report suspected reckless credit, failing which the Tribunal may impose an administrative fine. The section further empowers the National Credit Regulator to suspend the suspected reckless credit agreement, pending a declaration by the Tribunal.
- 3.12 Clause 12 amends section 85 of the Act to empower a court to refer a matter before it, where the consumer may qualify for debt intervention, directly to the National Credit Regulator for consideration of debt intervention.

- 3.13 Clause 13 amends section 86 of the Act to require a debt counsellor to always consider credit agreements for reckless lending, and not just at the request of the consumer.
- 3.14 Clause 14 inserts Part E into Chapter 4 of the Act. This part provides for criteria for qualifying for debt intervention, the debt intervention application, the process to evaluate debt intervention applications and for the possible orders that the Tribunal may make when considering an application for debt intervention. This part further provides for the effect of applying for debt intervention and the effect of a successful application for debt intervention. Provision is also made for rehabilitation from these effects. This part lastly provides for the Minister to prescribe other debt interventions under certain circumstances, specifying the process that the Minister follow when doing so.
- 3.15 Clause 15 amends section 89 of the Act to empower the Tribunal to declare an unlawful credit agreement void.
- 3.16 Clause 16 amends section 90 of the Act to empower the Tribunal to make an order related to unlawful provisions in a credit agreement.
- 3.17 Clause 17 amends section 106 of the Act to provide for mandatory credit life insurance in respect of certain credit agreements. The targeted credit agreements are those that consumers who earn less than R7500 per month could access. It is further provided that the cost of this mandatory credit life insurance must be determined by the Minister as the purpose is to benefit the target group of consumers and not to create a further burden. It is envisaged that mandatory credit life insurance will enable consumers to not be over-indebted in the event of retrenchment, and so exclude these consumers from any group in need of a debt intervention.
- 3.18 Clause 18 amends section 129 of the Act to provide that a credit provider may also not re-instate or revive a credit agreement where an order of the Tribunal was executed in respect of that credit agreement, or where the Tribunal ordered that the debt that underlies a credit agreement is extinguished, or that the credit agreement was reckless or void.
- 3.19 Clause 19 amends section 130 of the Act to provide that a court must dismiss a matter before it where the credit agreement was declared reckless or void by the Tribunal, or the Tribunal ordered that the debt underlying that credit agreement was extinguished.
- 3.20 Clause 20 amends section 137 of the Act to provide for the referral of applications for the debt intervention to the Tribunal.
- 3.21 Clause 21 amends section 142 of the Act to provide for the hearing of an application for debt intervention by a single member of the Tribunal and to provide that such member may consider an application for debt intervention on the documents before it without further evidence having to be led. This is to ensure that the applications are considered efficiently.
- 3.22 Clause 22 amends section 152 of the Act to make it clear that orders of the Tribunal are binding on credit providers and consumers as well.
- 3.23 Clause 23 inserts sections 157A, 157B, 157C and 157D into the Act. Section 157A provide for offences where a person intentionally submits false information or intentionally misrepresents information when applying for debt intervention, or where a person deliberately alters his or her financial circumstances in order to qualify for debt intervention. Section 157B provide for offences related to acts that are currently prohibited by the Act. Section 157C provides for offences where, despite registration being required by the Act, a person still operates as credit provider, credit bureau, debt counsellor, payment distribution agent, or alternative dispute resolution agent. Section 157D provides for the situation where an offence is committed by a company.

- 3.24 Clause 24 amends section 161 of the Act to provide for penalties for the offences created in clause 23. Due to seriousness of the offences, the maximum period of imprisonment is set at 10 years and in respect of the offences set out section 157A, the debt intervention applicant is also permanently barred from applying for any debt intervention. In respect of offences committed by a company, the example of administrative fines set out in section 151 is followed so that the maximum fine is set at 10 per cent of its annual turnover or R1 000 000, whichever amount is the greater.
- 3.25 Clause 25 amends section 164 of the Act to extend the provisions of the Act related to civil actions and jurisdiction to orders that the Tribunal may make in respect of unlawful provisions or unlawful credit agreements.
- 3.26 Clause 26 amends section 165 of the Act to provide that the Tribunal may change or rescind its order under certain circumstances.
- 3.27 Clause 27 amends section 171 of the Act to require the Minister to make regulations establishing a financial literacy and budgeting skills programme to assist consumers to manage their financial position.
- 3.28 Clause 28 amends the long title of the Act so as to provide for debt intervention.
- 3.29 Clause 29 provides the short title and commencement.

4. FINANCIAL IMPLICATIONS FOR THE STATE

The National Credit Regulator will require additional capacity to process the applications for debt intervention. It is however foreseen that the applications will have a limited period as the Bill provides for a cut-off date of the debt that qualifies. Any increase in capacity is thus temporary.
